The present disclosure relates to a system and a method for accessing streaming data. The method includes: obtaining, from a first user terminal and via a network, a first request for streaming data; transmitting the first request to a server for accessing the streaming data; recording identification information included in the first request to be corresponding to the server in a table; obtaining, from a second user terminal and via a network, a second request for the streaming data; and transmitting the second request to the server for accessing the streaming data. Identification information included in the second request is the same as the identification information included in the first request.
